DR. JONATHAN C. DAY DIES SUDDENLY

Nationally Known Letcher County Citizen Dies at His Home in Richmond, Virginia

A telegram received here early last Friday, announced that Dr. Jonathan C. Day, a native of Letcher county, born and reared a few miles out of Whitesburg, had died suddenly at his home in Richmond, where he had resided with his wife and two children for a few years. The word came as a great shock to hundreds of relatives and friends who knew him so well and who have never been in the best of health. His brothers, Clark Day and Edward P. Day, and two cousins, Jas. M. Day and Attorney Dug Day, left for Richmond as soon as the word was received. They found the sick man in the bed which Dr. Day's son was situated pack ed by people from all over the United States, anxious to do him honor, mourn his death and attend the memorial exercises. Telegrams and numerous offerings from the leading men and women of the nation, offering sympathies to the family, had been received. The city of Richmond was mourning the loss of one of its best known citizens.

Jonathan C. Day, at the time of his death, was 54 his year, and was a son of the late E. C. Day, known as Major, and was brought up on a rough mountain farm until he was dead, suddenly frozen to death, on Pine Mountain, near the home of his father on Laurel Branch, on the head of the Northfork, three or four miles from Jenkins.

It was reported that on the night before, young Holbrook, 19, son of Bill Holbrook, and another Lee Crouch, had gone across Pine Mountain, with a gun, to get moonshine whiskey. That in returning back over the mountain, Holbrook and Crouch, were captured by a gang of bandits, shooting, scalping, amputating, and laying his strong arms and absorbing mind to the task he so fond himself in the midst of friends who stood ready to help him were ready to speed his progress. This higher seat of learning and that college swing wide open its doors to this aspiring young man, and he never ceased to push on till he had a number of the highest honors and degrees of scholarship. He entered the Presbyterian ministry and often appeared with powerful and convincing force in some of the largest churches and pulpits of the United States. His oratorical oratory and powers on the platform in the capacity of a lecturer was seldom equaled. For many years he was the head and directing force of the great Labor Temple in New York, and there was set up an issue of the city paper of that name, as a great leader and director of men was heralded to the world. He associated with great orators, lecturers and statesmen. As a man and wife, Wm. Wilson Wilson was his friend and when he entered the White House grounds while Mr. Wilson was President, no blue coat dared to say him nay. But now the dead sleep amid the nations honored dead.

Jonathan C. Day was a shining example of what any poor boy with determination and grit can do. How well the writer remembers about two score years ago when he trudged through the snow a distance of seven or more miles from his home in Big Cowan with thin and tattered clothes a soiled and worn book or two under his arm, seeking the little fountains of knowledge that flowed from the little, humble school house on the hillside primitive mountain farm! And when he sat with eyes up turned and flashing, with ruddy cheeks and thirtish mind to seize the little rudiments of knowledge as they fell from the lips of the teacher. No

From Col. Pascoe

Ashland, Ky., April 12—Dear Editor:

I see by the label on my paper, marked 4-1-31, that I understand mean that my subscription to the Mountain Eagle is due if I want the paper for another year. I surely want the Eagle as I consider it one of the best mountain papers in Eastern Kentucky. May the Mountain Eagle continue to vibrate, stimulate and thrill us all.

Yours truly,
SAMUEL PASCOE.

Found Frozen to Death

Sometimes last Monday, Bud Holbrook, 19, son of Bill Holbrook, and another Lee Crouch, had gone across Pine Mountain, with a gun, to get moonshine whiskey. That in returning back over the mountain, Holbrook and Crouch, were captured by a gang of bandits, shooting, scalping, amputating, and laying his strong arms and absorbing mind to the task he so fond himself in the midst of friends who stood ready to help him were ready to speed his progress. APPEALING FOR HOMES —WONT YOU HELP?

The Kentucky Children's Home Society is sending out an appeal to the good citizens of the state to help them to take into their homes and hearts at least one of the many homeless children now being cared for in the institution at Lyndon, Ky.

The number of children received into the home during the past year, 1930-31, has been greater than at any previous time. In the home today are 255 children, boys and girls who are waiting and hoping for a real mother and daddy to give them the loving care and affection they are longing for.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lewis entertained at luncheon Tuesday those enjoying the occasion were Mrs. and Mrs. M. D. Lewis, Rev. F. S. Summers, James May, Lucy Caudill Lewis, James P. Lewis and Homer Lewis, of Georgetown.

One then dreamed that the day would come when he would be able to hold his own with the keenest intellects, the most powerful antagonists, philosophers and statesmen. But it did.

Some weeks ago in an automobile wreck the deceased was seriously hurt. While he was well healed, yet of late he had suffered some heavy trouble.

Arthur Enoch was down from Kona, and left a nice printing order for the Elkhorn Coal Company, which is encouraging.

Uncle Bill Williams has been quite a sick man for several days, but is slightly improved now.

Judge Joe D. Sargent returned from the hospital at Lexington and is still by no means a fit man.

He is still, sad heart, and cease

Carbon Glow

Still Prospects

A news letter from Cauldill's Rockhouse says that the coal mines at Carbon Glow are running about every day in the week and that times are about the same as they have been for the past year. Some of those people who are not missing, every day are cleaning up corn patches, clearing ground, plowing and preparing to raise everything possible, as well as large gardens.

The same news man says that Buddie Cauldill, of Buzzard Fork, on Easter Sunday, went on a ground hog hunt and captured a fine gray fox. He brot it in home, played with it a while (Buddie has a set of fine twin boys) and then turned it loose.

EVERYBODY COME

—to hear the Kentucky Cardinals (the first grade band) give a concert at the school auditorium, Friday evening, April 10th, 7 o'clock.

A very important meeting of the County Board of Education was held in the Superintendent's office Tuesday, and some action was taken to provide for the school was transacted. The Board has all the earmarks of one that is fully determined to do everything possible for the county schools. And it is a big task. Let them be positive and hearty co-operation from all the people.

The Foe of Youth

The Kentucky Tuberculosis Association has begun an intensive campaign with the slogan "Tuberculosis—the Foe of Youth."

Tuberculosis is the foe of youth. Under a new plan of attack on disease, the 1,400 tuberculosis associations of the United States are organizing an intensive effort to fight disease both in men and women. During the general reduction of the death rate from this disease in the last twenty years, it still kills more persons between 18 and 35 than any other cause, and has a high death rate of 120 per 100,000 in the age group of 20 to 24, while among the population in the nation as a whole, the rate is only 76.

Boys and girls have been discovered in active tuberculosis, scholastic work leading in athletics and scholarship, apparently in good health, but actually with tuberculosis smoldering within them, soon to break into flame. Modern scientific progress has brought with it the treatment test and X-ray, and by these aids physicians discover cases in time to check the disease— even before any symptoms are noticeable.

In childhood before the age of 18, one in five children, per cent already have the germs in their bodies. In most cases, resistance is sufficient to ward off serious damage. But in others, and nobody knows by merely looking at them which ones they are—the damage is already done, but it is so slight there are no signs. This is called the "childhood type of tuberculosis." This is not a serious case, but if the warning of the previous condition has not been heeded, and steps taken to prevent what often follows, boys and girls approach the twenties, some of them with slightly damaged lungs, though scarcely knowing it. They enter a period of great activity in school and social life, flushed with the joys of living. The strain of these days if too great may result in active, raging tuberculosis. The student may appear to be well, but in reality he is smoldering within him all the time. A few years later we see the results in the heavy toll of life. Thus it robs our nation of young manhood and womanhood when they are at the most useful themselves, and to the most join with us in this fight to protect our youth and make Kentucky safe for Kentuckians.

WHITAKER

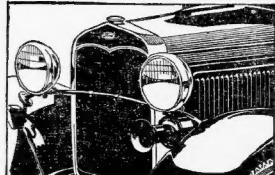

Spencer Adams, who has been very ill for some time, is still not better.

The Whitaker mines are now working nearly every day.

Our people are interested in getting out gardens and crops, and trying to try to raise all the can.

Eld. Bennett Adams held services at Spencer Adams Saturday night. A large crowd was present. Mr. Adams will hold services again next Saturday at the home of S. E. Bentley.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

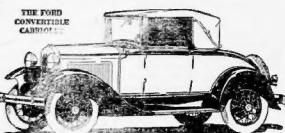

Bright, enduring RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Call or phone for demonstration.

LOW FORD PRICES $430 to $630

(F. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at low cost. You can purchase a Ford on economical terms through the authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.)

Church, Social And Society

Hester Chapter, No. 5 O. E., entertained with an antique tea on Friday afternoon. Many Viola and Eunice Combs, Carrie antiques were on display, some Lee Whitaker and Mrs. R. R. being over 100 years old. Miss Cornell from State University, old. The out-door guests were Madames E. E. Hollyfield and Hester Day, from Lees; Gertrude Breeze, Fulton, Arthur Dixon, A. J. from Southern Business Gilmer, M. C. Johnson, H. S. College; Miss Eva Dean Squires, John, Paul Ashcraft, H. S. from Eastern, and Miss Eunice Short, A. J. Marshal, S. H. Johnson Lewis, from Goshen.

Prof. H. H. Hadley was in the city Monday. Mr. Hadley has lately located at Cassonville where he was in charge of the school there some years ago. Now you he is legal counsel principal of the school. He is an ardent and up-to-date educator and we are glad to have him back in our county.

METHODISM

It means much to be a Methodist. Methodism is a great army with 29,100 enlisted in her service. She moves across a continent with great power and influence. She penetrates the air with her gospel and gives light, liberty and knowledge. She does not bind her constituency to any forms or rituals. Her motto is: "In essentials, UNITY; in non-essentials, CHARITY." The two essential Methodist maxims are: To bear the name of the Spirit of God, and to give testimony of this birth, in body, life and language. But we do not for a moment maintain that the blessings of God are confined to Methodists alone—not for one moment. There is enough of a part of great movement in the kingdom of God. But we, and others, acknowledge that her labors have been specially blessed of God. Her work has been great—but it is not finished. Future, we trust, is greater than her past. The world is greater than we have ever known. We invite you to worship with them and take part in this great movement of righteousness.

Mr. Smith pounds his public life in the gern-hidden atmosphere of crowds in hall, church or tabernacle. He goes from an over-heated meeting place into the first outside sit-downs, where he is physically exhausted.

His profession demands that he do the very things that he should not do in order to avoid catching Cold. His inaction would speak with authority on the subject.

DELIVERED $785 EQUIPPED

Check Pontiac's fine-car features against your own experience as a motorist, and you can quickly decide the question of value . . .

BODIES BY FISHER—In these bodies Fisher craftsmen have attained remarkable insulation against heat, cold and noise. Style, riding ease and safety already new standards. Upholstery of genuine whipcord or moquette combines good taste with exceptional durability. There is ample room.

NEW 60-H. P. ENGINE—Power alone never meant satisfaction or comfort. Through advanced engineering Pontiac has attained fine-car smoothness along with power * for all driving needs and emergencies.

CHASSIS CUSHIONED WITH RUBBER—At more than 40 points, including spring shackles, the chassis is cushioned with rubber. Riding ease is notably increased—also the car's steadiness on the road. Protection from the effect of road shocks prolongs the car's life.

LARGE, POWERFUL BRAKES—In any emergency—in town or on the highway—the driver has full control of his car. Surely, evenly and powerfully, the big brakes grip all wheels. You are safe in all driving conditions.

A demonstration will be arranged at your convenience—entirely free of obligation, of course.

Worth-While Sayings of Great Men

The blaze of truth and liberty may at firstingle and bewil- dering to those who have become blind in the house of bondage. But let them gaze on, and they will soon be able to beat it—Thomas Macaulay.

Not only should there be complete freedom of expression of religion and opinion, but complete liberty for each man to lead his life as he desires, provided that in so doing he does not wrong his neighbor.—Theodore Roosevelt.

The power of religion is best preserved by keeping it separate from government; and the surest means of giving it its proper influence in society is the dissemination of correct principles through education.—James Edward Blyden.

The American Constitution, in harmony with the people of the several states, withheld from the Federal Government the power to invade the homes of the citizens of con- siderable size, the sanctity of the soul; and not from indifference that the infinite Spirit of eternal truth might move in its freedom and purity and power.—George Bancroft.

There is not complete religious liberty when one sect is favored by the state and given an advantage by law over other sects. Whatever establishes a distinction against one class or sect is, to the extent that it is established, an infringement, a persecution, and if based upon religious grounds, a religious persecution. The extent of the discrimination is not material to the principle. It is enough that it creates an inequality of right and privilege.—Judge Thos. M. Cooley.

The sacred rights of mankind are not to be rummaged for among old parchments or musty records. They are written as with a sunbeam on the whole volume of human happiness by the hand of Divinity Himself, and can never be erased or obscured by human power. That in what is called the law of nature, which being coeval with mankind and dictated by God Himself, is of course, superior in obligation to any other. No human laws are of any validity in contravention to this. It is binding over all the globe, in all countries and at all times.—Alexander Hamilton.

I am ashamed of some Christians because they have so much dependence on Parliament to do what is right. They should advise us to insist in our struggle for liberty, though it were revealed to heaven that nine hundred and ninety-nine were to perish, and only one out of a thousand to survive and retain their freedom. We should then insist that we are more virtuous and enjoy more happiness than a thousand slaves.—Samuel Adams.

Both the Yellow Front stores in Whitesburg have made some arrangements with the Chamber of Commerce buildings and are circulating the trade with some unusually low prices this week and inviting the trading public to pay them a visit to take advantage of these low prices as well as to see the new improvements which they have made. These stores are home owned and money spent with them will circulate again in the home community.

JENKINS

Well, the idea of a home garden seems to be all the talk these days now. On Wednesday morning at assembly period, Dr. E. F. Shepard gave a splendid talk on the "Home Garden." The company nurses have taken an active part in the matter of getting interested, which has lead to more and better gardens in our towns. The schools are doing their bit by growing cabbage, tomato and pepper plants in the rooms, while the older boys are planting hot beds for sweet potatoe. Yes, we have many beautiful flowers in bloom, but not all the boxes hold flowers these days. If the gardens do well, it may be possible to hold a school fair in the fall at which the choice products of the gardens will be on display.

Our May Day program is going fine progress. Watch for date of our field day and May Day program.
